DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-10 are objected to because of the following informalities: there are occasions with limitations being in parentheses ("at least" in line 5 of claim 1, for example) in claims 1, 3 and 10. Such limitations are considered as references or explanations to the claimed elements and not being considered as claimed limitations. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-7 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Koyano et al (US-5,828,763, hereafter, Koyano).

Regarding claim 1, 6-7 and 10, Koyano discloses a loudspeaker combination (embodiments of Figs. 1, 7, 13) including at least two loudspeakers having an all phase shifter 7 connected to the front of one of the loudspeaker for outputting or radiating low and medium frequency range signals. The characteristics of the all phase shifter are depending on the frequency of the signal that coupled also to the high pass filter (i.e., changing the phase shift characteristic according to the filtering output of the filter as claimed). What's not shown by Koyano is a low-pass frequency filter in one of the channel output.

Although Koyano shows the loudspeaker combination with the high pass frequency filter output instead of the low pass frequency filter output, it is old and very well known in the audio art to utilize different frequency filters for filtering different desired frequency output signals. To modify the loudspeaker combination taught by Koyano by including a low pass filter with the phase shifter for providing signal compensation with low frequency sound wave phase shift to reproducing an improved high fidelity sound field with both low and high frequency signal phase shift compensation would have been obvious to one of ordinary skilled in the art.

Regarding claims 2-5, the loudspeakers of Koyano radiate full frequency range of signal that including medium frequency range and is of the same structure type and form of loudspeakers.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 8-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Iwahara, Hahne, Tominari, Deville, Sadaie, and Zwicky et al disclose various audio signals processing devices having phase shifting circuits for improving audio signals reproduction.
